

MUCH ACTIVITY AT GRAND JURY ROOM

Biggest Crowd of Witnesses in Years Awaiting Turn to be Called Before the Body.

CORRIDOR FILLED ALL DAY

Indications Are That All Cases Set for Trial During Week Will be Reset or Continued.

Speculation as to the activity of the grand jury in session at the court house was rife today. The corridor leading up to the grand jury room was filled with witnesses waiting their turn to be called before the inquisitorial body. It was stated that the biggest crowd of witnesses for the grand jury in recent years assembled at the court house today. The number of witnesses naturally gave rise as to the character of the cases under investigation, but the witnesses failed to give any intimation as to the purpose of their visit. The guesses around the court house were many and varied. The grand jury works in secret and nothing is known as to its work until its report is made. Then only the number of indictments are made public and the names of the defendants are withheld until the arrests are made.

It is possible that all the witnesses called before the grand jury today were summoned on one case, but that was not regarded as likely by court house officials. It was the general impression that a number of alleged violations of law were under consideration.

It is expected that the grand jury will complete its work this week. Last week it was reported that the body anticipated adjournment by the middle of the present week and it may be that the large number of witnesses was due to the desire of the members to wind up their work as soon as possible. The session has been in progress since last Monday.

The case of the state vs. John Owens, charged with trespass, was set for trial Tuesday, but the case cannot be tried as E. P. Elsner, attorney for the defendants, is sitting as a member of the Indiana legislature and is unable to attend the trial. The case has been postponed for many terms and is one of the oldest on the docket.

The case of the state vs. Harry C. Drake, of Indianapolis, charged with arson in connection with a fire at Clearspring, was also set for Tuesday, but neither the state nor the defendant will be ready for trial so it will be reset or continued until later in the terms. The continuance of these two cases means that there

The Rev. Austin Lord Speaks of the Bravery and Hardships of The American Forces.

The Rev. Austin Lord, who served as a chaplain with the American forces in France, gave an interesting address at the First M. E. church Sunday night. He told of the big battle in the St. Mihiel sector and said that the victory was due to the courage and bravery of the American soldiers. He told how some of the Americans lay wounded on the field for hours and even days before they could be removed. He vividly described the attack by the Americans before St. Mihiel and of the effective barrage that the Yankees laid down much to the surprise of the German forces.

When the Americans entered the villages which had been in German hands for four years, the inhabitants did not recognize the American uniforms. When they were told that they had been liberated by the Americans they could not believe the statement as they did not know that the Yankees were in France.

Chaplain Lord told of the brutal bombardments by the Germans of the Red Cross hospitals which were plainly indicated in the usual manner. Some of these bombardments resulted in the death of a hundred or more wounded men.

ASSESSORS BEGIN THEIR 60-DAY JOB

Proposition of Listing Personal Property Made Difficult by Uncertain Legislation.

BASIS IS 100 PERCENT. VALUE

Schedule for Assessing Farm Property is Arranged at Meeting Saturday—Township Deputies.

The big job of listing the personal property in Jackson county was started this morning and the deputy assessors face the hardest proposition that has been presented for many years. The work is made difficult by the unsettled legislation as the assessors do not know positively whether the assessments will be made on the hundred percent., fifty percent., or twenty-five per cent. basis. All the assessors and their deputies were instructed by James Brannaman, county assessor, at the meeting Saturday afternoon to list personal property at full value and then if the legislature decided to assess it on the fifty percent. basis the amount listed will be cut in two. The books which were used in the past were not distributed to the deputies this year and the listing of property will be made without reference to any assessments heretofore.

Personal property in city—Charles Murphy, northeast section; Ed Sams, northwest section; Harry Hoover, southwest section, and Louis Sweany, southeast section. The city is divided according to the Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania Lines tracks.

For the country the assessors are Aaron A. Ruddick and Fred Miller.

There is some speculation as to whether any law that might be passed by the legislature now would become effective as to the present assessment. The assessment work was started under the law that was in force on March 1, and it is probable that a protest from any citizen against the state board of tax commissioners would be sufficient from preventing the enforcement of any new regulations this year.

The assessors have been instructed that as a general rule they are to list personal property at its true cash value, but for the guidance of the assessors several schedules have been provided. Automobiles costing less than $700 are to be taken at eighty percent of their original cost if used for only one year, and the assessment will run as low as twenty percent, where they have been used five years or more. The percentage on machines costing from $700 to $1,800 runs from seventy-five to twenty-five percent., according to period of use, and on machines costing in excess of $1,800 the assessment basis is from 75 percent. to twenty-five percent. of the original cost.

The schedule also includes: Wheat $2 a bushel; corn, $1 a bushel; rye, $1 a bushel; oats 50 cents a bushel; hay, $15 a ton; alfalfa hay, $20 a ton; bacon, 25 cents a pound; lard, 25 cents a pound; poultry, $10 per dozen.

Telephones which are owned by individuals as on some of the rural party lines, will be listed at $5 each.

Horses and other stock are to be taken at the true cash value.

PLANS MADE FOR BIG MONEY DRIVE

Conference Relative to Lutheran Three Million Dollar Campaign Conducted in This City.

MANY DELEGATES PRESENT

Task of Organizing Churches in District will be Accomplished Between March 3 and 29.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of representatives of Lutheran churches in southern Indiana and Kentucky was held at the Lutheran parish house Sunday afternoon. Twenty-two churches of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other States were represented. The territory covered includes Indianapolis and vicinity, Bartholomew county, Jackson county and Louisville and vicinity.

The meeting was called to order at 2:30 o'clock by the Rev. J. D. Matthews, of Indianapolis, who acted as chairman.

A roll-call showed that seventeen pastors, twenty-two teachers and twenty-two lay-delegates were present. Besides the official delegates a large number of guests from Indianapolis, Columbus and Seymour were in attendance.

Several addresses were made by

OWEN TOWNSHIP ROAD CONTRACT IS AWARDED

Charles L. Smith Files Bid of $3,790 for 7,000 Feet of Gravel Highway—Superintendent Named.

The county commissioners in regular session today awarded the contract for the Wray gravel road in Owen township to Charles L. Smith on a bid of $3,790. The road is 7,000 feet long. John W. Fountain was named as superintendent of construction.

George B. Lucas and Elmer Kerner were appointed viewers on the John B. Spurgeon highway in Salt Creek township, and E. B. Douglass was named as engineer. The viewers are to report at the next term of the commissioners' court.

All other road matters were continued. The contractors and bondsmen for the concrete and macadam roads in this township were ordered to report to the commissioners at the April term and it is expected that a decision will be reached at that time as to what action will be taken towards completion of the contracts. The bonds for these roads have already been sold.

The commissioners had a number of other matters pertaining to highway and bridge repairs before them and it is likely that they will make an inspection tomorrow.

CLEARING THE WAY FOR ADJOURNMENT

Senate Takes Up Tax Reform Bill and House Considers Appropriation Measure.

AMENDMENTS ARE OFFERED

Routine Business to Be Resumed After Special Legislation is Out of the Way.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, March 4.—Clearing the way for the final drive both the House and Senate today took up bills in committee of the whole for consideration and action. The Senate struggled with the tax reform bill, the most wordy measure ever introduced in an Indiana legislature, while the House grappled with the specific appropriation measure.

Numerous amendments to the appropriation bill were prepared today by members of the lower branch while practically every senator and Lieutenant Governor Bush were whetting their blades and awaiting turn to slash into the administration tax measure. All efforts to place additional officers under the control of the governor or any officer appointed by the chief executive of the state were scheduled for bitter attacks by Republican as well as Democratic members of the upper branch.

Fred A. Sims, member of the board of tax commissioners of the state, and author of the tax measure was hopeful that "the essence of the bill would survive" the attacks in the Senate although there was but little optimistic comment forthcoming from the office of the governor on this measure.

As soon as the tax bill is cleared from the Senate docket it is generally understood that the general and then the specific appropriation bill will be considered in committee of the whole and placed under their passage under the suspension of rules, after the fashion in which the highway commission bill passed the upper branch late Saturday.

The House will return to routine business following the passage of the appropriations bill which is expected tonight.

Senator Negley, of Indianapolis, today introduced a senate concurrent resolution requesting congressional action for six months' pay to discharged soldiers, sailors and marines. Senator English, Indianapolis, introduced another resolution providing for making up a deficit for six months, between the present pay and the pay received by soldiers, sailors and marines before they entered the service.

Senator James, Dana, asked that the Symons blue sky bill be referred to another committee. The motion was lost. Consideration of the Mendenhall tax bill which was on the docket for today was postponed until tomorrow on motion of Senator Negley. The senate today passed the Ratts resolution amendment the constitution and providing for enumeration.

Warships Under Construction to be Broken Up and Materials Used for Peace Time Purposes.

By United Press.

Paris, March 3.—The supreme war council today took up the terms of a preliminary peace to be imposed on Germany. At the same time it discussed conditions under which the economic blockade of that country will be partly raised.

Conditions under which the blockade is to be modified, will, it was understood, be ready to be put into effect immediately after the return to Paris of President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George and Premier Orlando. The military and naval terms to be included in the preliminary peace pact will render Germany absolutely powerless to make war, it was learned from authoritative sources. Warships under construction will be broken up. All German submarines, and submarine docks will be surrendered within two weeks after the treaty is signed. Similar work in the process of construction must be broken up within three months after peace is concluded though the material may be used for peaceful purposes.

The separate peace terms probably will be completed by the first of next month by which time the details of the treaties with Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey will be discussed.

The naval and military terms to be included in the preliminary peace pact will render Germany absolutely powerless to make war, it was learned from authoritative sources.

Marshal Foch's report, submitted Saturday, was paid to include destruction of all German war material, with the exception of arms for a few divisions, which will be left for police duty. The allies will also be given supervision over all German munitions factories.

The naval conditions were said to include surrender to the allies of practically all that remains of the German navy. The units to be turned over will be the battleships Oldenburg, Thuringen, Ostriesland, Heligoland, Posen Westfalen, Rheinland, and Massau, the light cruisers Pillau, Graudenz, Regensburg, Straleund, Strassburg, Augsburg, Kilburg and Stuttgart, 42 modern destroyers and 50 modern torpedo boats.

BIG WAR CONTRACTS ARE VALIDATED BY PRESIDENT

Delayed Payment Held Responsible in Part for Business Stagnation in Country.

By United Press.

Washington, March 3.—The president today signed the bill validating informal war contracts amounting to about $2,500,000. The delay of war manufacturers on receiving their payments on these contracts has been given as one cause for business stagnation. Signing of this bill was announced at the conference of governors and mayors as an indication that the government wishes to revive immediately the business situation.

Although Seymour did not win the tri-state tournament at Cincinnati, the local team made a good showing. The first game with St. Xavier resulted in a tie but a second game gave Seymour the big end of a 23 to 22 score. The local's next game was with the Newport, Ky., team and was lost by the narrow margin of one point. The score was 16 to 15. The local team entered the tournament after a series of hard games here and at Madison and the players were exhausted and not at their best.

A girl baby was born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. George Hackman, west of the city.

RECOGNITION IS GIVEN TO SOVIET

German Government Makes Frantic Attempt to Stem The Tide of General Disorders.

PUNISHMENT FOR RIOTERS

General Strike in Berlin Appears Certain—Uprisings Continue Throughout The Country.

By United Press.

Berlin, March 3.—The German government today partly recognized the soviet. In a frantic effort to prevent the general strike from becoming a nation wide revolution, the cabinet issued a proclamation, admitting social and economic control of industries by the workmen's council, but promising stringent punishment for further disorders. The workers insisted upon full political recognition threatening an uprising within a week that will be of sufficient power to overthrow the government.

A general strike in Berlin appeared certain today. Riots are reported to be continuing in all parts of the country.

The Spartacans were said to be gaining ground, even among the majority socialists. Great demonstrations were planned for Berlin and a general strike may be proclaimed. Col. Reinhardt, military commandant, declared the strikes would be suppressed by all possible means.

The Vorwaerts has demanded that the cabinet resign unless the national assembly grants the workers "justified demands." The government has issued a proclamation stating it will not support the demands for nationalization of all industries.

The representatives of the Worker's Council were holding a convention this afternoon to decide if the recognition offered them is sufficient. It is understood they were reticent in regard to the use of force.

In Munich it was reported that the Spartacans and Socialists were waiting for each other to begin hostilities.

HOME SERVICE WORKERS TO HOLD CONFERENCE

Red Cross Workers of District to Meet at Columbus March 7 and 8.

"Present Day Tasks of Home Service" and "The Future of Social Service" are two of the topics listed for discussion the first day of the regional conference at Columbus arranged by the Civilian Relief Department, Lake Division, American Red Cross, to be held March 7 and 8.

Home Service workers from the following counties have been invited to confer with representatives from Civilian Relief Department, Lake Division, Johnson, Bartholomew, Decatur, Jackson, Scott, Jennings, Shelby, Jefferson, Rush, Hendricks, Morgan, Brown, Ripley, Switzerland, Ohio, Dearborn.

The second day of the conference will be devoted to community welfare and mobilization problems. "The Reconstruction and Re-educating of the Crippled and Disabled Men" will be the speaker's topic at the public mass meeting to be held on the evening of March 7.

The tentative program includes such speakers as Dr. J. R. Colbert, director of the Bureau of Research and Education, J. B. Biddle, Home Service field supervisor, Miss Virginia Wing, assistant to the director of the Civilian Relief Department, and Miss Rhoda Welding, Home Service field supervisor.

SITUATION IN GERMANY.

With the growing spirit of anarchy in Germany the position of the recognized government becomes perilous. The Spartacists have made repeated attempts to overthrow the government and the anarchists, claiming that the Spartacists are too conservative, are striving to get control. The effort to form a republic at Weimar is making little headway. The seat of the new government has been cut off from Berlin. Some of the members of the cabinet have been able to reach the capital while others are held practically as prisoners in Weimar. The situation is anything but encouraging.

It appears that there has been too much delay on the part of the allies in effecting peace terms. The people in Germany are just beginning to realize what has happened. They are beginning to see that they will be held responsible for the damage their armies wrought in Belgium and France. They had only a vague idea of what the terms of settlement would be when the armistice was signed. The spirit of victory permeated the German people so strongly that it did not occur to most of them that terms would be dictated to them. For years they have been told how Germany would frame the terms of peace to be saddled upon the allies. It is hard for them to face the truth.

The situation in Germany can best be clarified by a speedy presentation of peace terms. The world wants to get through with the war business and settle back to normal life. It is the uncertainty that causes the depression of business and trade between the nations of the world that we have heard so much about. Germany wants to restore trade with other countries so that food and material can be shipped in and in this way the civil disorders will be quieted. The delay by the associated powers is costly. The quicker the peace terms can be formulated the better it will be for the entire world.

TELEPHONE EXPENSE.

The cost to the public in Indiana of the new Burleson rate order is set forth in a report compiled by the Indiana public service commission. The additional cost of government control of telephone lines is saved the public by the recent decision of Judge Ewbank in the Marion circuit court. The following report is interesting:

"Estimate has been made on six of the smaller exchanges which were selected, showing an average of 1,300 subscribers with an average toll billing of $680 for the month of January, 1918. This averages 52 cents per subscriber for toll for the month.

"A study of the proposed government rates indicates an average increase of from 25 to 30 cents over the present toll rates. Using the lowest indicated average increase of 25 per cent on the average normal cost of 52 cents per subscriber means an increased cost of 13 cents per subscriber per month.

"Estimating the total number of subscribers in Indianapolis to be 80,000 and 13 cents each means $10,400 increased cost per month or $124,800 per year.

"In selecting these six exchanges, they necessarily represent the smaller business average toll business. The larger cities of Indianapolis, Terre Haute, South Bend, Fort Wayne, Evansville and the Gary district, contain many business concerns whose toll business runs into large sums, and were these areas used instead of the smaller, there is no doubt but that the average increase cost resultant from the proposed government schedule would be much larger."

BOGUS LEGISLATION.

There has never been a session of the Indiana legislature that has been free of attempts to pass dangerous and fraudulent bills. The session now in progress is no exception. But Speaker Eschbach of the house, is cognizant of such attempts and has warned the representatives against such efforts. The danger is greater during the final week of the session when the rush of work is more pronounced. The members of the house and senate will be on the alert for such measures.

The words of the speaker sounding the warning to the members of the house carry a threat if such legislation is attempted by any lobby. He is in a position to prevent such legislation and the following warning uttered by him shows that he will block it:

"Gentlemen, I desire to warn you at this time that there will be made a serious effort by a combination, which has been formed, to put across bills of questionable character during the closing days of the session. There is an investigation being made at the present time of this purpose. You men will have great pressure brought upon you during the closing days of the session by people who are desirous of opening the doors of the state treasury. I expect to tell you gentlemen what the investigation shows if it becomes necessary. I shall turn over the gavel to some member and take the floor and tell the purposes of the combination."

Nervousness and Headaches Caused by Acid-Stomach

There is a much closer connection between the stomach and brain than most people imagine. It is because of this close connection that indigestion, belching, sour, gassy stomach and other stomach miseries—all of which are sure signs of acid stomach—are so often followed by severe attacks of dizziness, splitting headaches.

Nervousness, sleeplessness, irritability, mental depression, melancholia and many other disorders which affect the brain can also nearly always be traced to the same source—acid-stomach.

So often you hear people say "I am so nervous I think I'll fly to pieces;" or "It seems I never get a good night's sleep any more, my nerves are all on edge." Little do they dream that acid stomach is the direct cause of their troubles because very often there are no pains in the stomach at all. So you see, you can't always judge an acid-stomach condition by the way your stomach, itself, feels.

If you are weak, nervous, unfit—if you are not up to your old time form—if you lack your accustomed enthusiasm, energy and pep—make this test and see if it isn't acid-stomach that is holding you back—robbing you of your health, strength and vigor. Get a big box of EATONIC—the wonderful modern medicine that so quickly puts an acid stomach to rights. It is in the form of pleasant tasting tablets that you eat like a bit of candy. EATONIC rids the stomach of excess acid. Brings instant relief from indigestion, heartburn, sour belching, food repeating, bloating and gas and makes the stomach cool, pure, sweet and comfortable.

Dentists warn us against the bad effects of acid mouth, pointing out that the acid eats through the enamel of the teeth, causing them to decay. You can easily imagine then the amount of damage excess acid will cause to the delicate organization of the stomach.

Thousands of people are using EATONIC and the results obtained are so remarkable as to be almost unbelievable. Yet their letters of gratitude, many of which are received daily, prove absolutely that EATONIC does all and even more than we claim. The medical profession, too, recognizes the great value of this wonderful remedy. A learned Michigan doctor wrote recently: "I have had such wonderful success with EATONIC that I want every one to know how quickly it will neutralize the acidity of the stomach (acid-stomach) and the stomach will soon be sweet and normal again, and the sick man well and happy once more."

So be sure to get a big box of EATONIC from your druggist today. If it fails in any way to give you the kind of satisfaction you want, take it back—he will refund your money. He doesn't want one penny of your money unless EATONIC helps you.

WEAKNESS REMAINS LONG AFTER Influenza

Reports Show That Strength, Energy and Ambition Return Very Slowly to Grippe Patients.

After an attack of influenza, doctors advise that nature be assisted in its building-up process by the use of a good tonic—one that will not only put strength and endurance into the body, but will also help to build up and strengthen the run-down cells of the brain.

One of the most highly recommended remedies to put energy into both body and brain is Bio-feren—your physician knows the formula—it is printed below.

There's iron in Bio-feren—the kind of iron that makes red blood corpuscles and creates vigor. There is lecithin also; probably the best brain invigorator known to science. Then there is good old reliable gentian, that brings back your lagging appetite.

There are other ingredients that help to promote good health, as you can see by reading this formula, not forgetting kolo, that great agent that puts the power of endurance into weak people.

Taken altogether Bio-feren is a splendid active tonic that will greatly help any weak, run-down person to regain normal strength, energy, ambition and endurance.

Bio-feren is sold by all reliable druggists and is inexpensive. For weakness after influenza patients are advised to take two tablets after each meal and one at bed time—seven a day, until health, strength and vigor are fully restored.

It will not fail to help you and if for any reason you are dissatisfied with results your druggist is authorized to return your money upon request—without any red tape of any kind.

Note to physicians: There is no secret about the formula of Bio-feren. It is printed on every package. Here it is: Lecithin; Calcium Glycero-phosphate; Iron Pentonate; Manganese Peptonate; Ext. Nux. Vomica; Powdered Gentian; Phenolphthalein; Olearin Capsicum. Kolo.

DEFEATED PRUSSIA WHINES FOR SYMPATHY OF WORLD

Attitude and Ambitions Are Unchanged, but Methods Are Altered Radically.

(By Frank J. Taylor, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Berlin, March 3.—That Prussian attitude and ambition is quite unchanged, so far as individuals are concerned, is one of the conclusions a foreigner is forced to after living in Berlin long enough to talk to people and to find out what they think.

The question is one of the most interesting and also most difficult to understand. By Prussians is meant the people of North Germany, as distinguished from those of other parts of the country. It is not hard to decide where they are from, no matter where you meet these people, nor is everyone in Berlin Prussian.

As a nation, Germans everywhere realize their defeat and realize the helplessness of their situation. But the attitudes toward the problems before them are sharply contrasting when you talk to South Germans after discussing the situation with Prussians.

Unconsciously, the Prussians assume responsibility for the old system by the tremendous concern she manifests over Germany's collapse. From the Prussian point of view, it is the duty of every German to make the situation appear as bad as possible to gain as lenient a peace as possible.

Perhaps unconsciously, the Prussians are whining in order to win sympathy. A typical expression of the Prussian point of view will include pointing out that the Entente must not demand too much of Germany, will disclaim the responsibility for beginning the war, and will make an appeal for food and commerce.

There is something cold and calculating about the information you get from Prussians. Unconsciously, you find there is still a strong Pan-Germanic spirit, an ambition for empire, for the colonies, and for world commerce. The North Germans are continually on the aggressive to gain every point possible—a characteristic which probably is due to their dependence on the outside world for a living.

The South Germans of Bavaria and the Rhineland towns manifest far less fear over the defeat and the debt with which Germany will be burdened. Food conditions interest them, and the internal problems of the country. Foreign politics occupies far less place in their discussions.

The reason for the remarkably different view-point may be explained by the remark of a Bavarian high in political circles. "Between you and me, we don't mind this defeat so much after all. It's true that we might have made a far better peace a year ago, but we'd still be under the domination of Prussia. Now we are independent of it, and the Prussians know they can't rule us any more. We'll have to pay more, but it's a better freedom."

Prussia probably will make a strong bid to continue her influence over the Germans. The struggle is on now—the South Germans talk of "laws from Berlin" if the capital of the new republic is not moved farther south. Unfortunately, there is no big city in Central Germany which would do. Under pressure from the South Germans, a new capital may be built from the ground up, after the manner of Washington.

Another interesting feature of South German life is the satisfaction with their own country and the life there. People are content to live and work and let the outside world alone. This may be due to the fact that life in South Germany is heartier, more solid and less of a struggle than in the North.

In Berlin and other parts of northern Germany there is a huge percentage of the population looking forward to leaving the country at the first opportunity, for America and England, if entry into those countries is possible. You are besieged with people who want to know if Germans soon can go to America. The Prussian viewpoint sees no reason why Germans cannot enjoy the fruits of the world as they did before the war.

Great Britain Becomes Completely Independent of German Products.

NOW MEETS ALL DEMANDS

Before the War Germany Had Control of Much Raw Material That Was Vital—Finds Way to Supply Potash.

London.—A remarkable story of how British industries formerly dependent for their life blood on Germany have under the stress of war's demands arisen to a state of complete independence was told by Mr. Kelloway, parliamentary secretary to the British ministry of munitions, at a recent meeting of the industrial reconstruction council. Britain is now first in the world in almost every sphere of industrial effort, he said.

Beginning with raw materials, Mr. Kelloway showed that mica, absolutely essential to the electrical industry, was so controlled by Germany, although half the world's supply came from India, that when the war began the world's market was on the point of being transferred from London to Hamburg. But Indian mica now can be exported only to London, and the British electrical industry has taken the place Germany once held and is now the first in the world.

Before the war the British empire produced 40 per cent of the wolfram ore from which tungsten (essential for high speed steel and in metallic filaments) is made, but so successfully had Germany captured the trade that no British manufacturer was able to establish the industry in this country. To this position Germany owed her great superiority in munitions production in the earlier stages of the war. All that has been changed. Britain is now able to produce all the high speed steel she needs and to export at a reasonable price to her allies.

Controlled Australian Zinc.

Australia has practically unlimited supplies of zinc ore, but Germany obtained control of them, and 77 per cent of British pre-war supplies came from Germany, Belgium and Holland. Germany being Britain's largest supplier. But now Australia's output has been diverted, permanently, he hoped, to Great Britain.

Great Britain used to depend entirely on Germany for potash, essential for fertilizers, dyes, drugs and glass production. The war revealed that 50,000 tons of potash was going to waste here every year in the dust or fumes from blast furnace gases. That is now being collected. Germany had relied on her practical monopoly in Europe of natural deposits of potash to enable her to bargain for the recovery of her world markets. She will be disappointed. British enterprise and judicious government assistance have taken that power from her.

Machine tool production looked like an almost insoluble problem at the beginning of the war, but so greatly has production increased that before long the power of the engine will be the same as its weight in pounds, i. e., one pound per horse-power.

The British position in 1914 in regard to the production of magnetos was very grave, but, thanks to a display of grit in the face of almost insuperable difficulties, of resource and of patriotism as fine in its way as that shown by her fighting forces, the British magneto position has been established and made unassailable.

Foreign-Made Gun Sights.

The war was nearly lost because the British were almost entirely dependent on Germany and Austria for scientific and optical glass, essential to success. It is humiliating, Mr. Kelloway continued, but it is the fact that at the outbreak of war a considerable part of our artillery was equipped with gun sights exclusively manufactured in Germany. Two British firms started making sights, but the position was exceedingly serious when the ministry of munitions was formed. Recently these two firms were producing 250 a week. The sight is a beautiful and delicate piece of work, and its production in such numbers and in a perfection which Germany never exceeded is a triumph for British skill.

Before the war the British optical and scientific instrument industry had degenerated into a collection of middlemen who mainly sold instruments completely manufactured in foreign countries. All that has been swept away by the bitter necessities of war, and Britain is now self-supporting.

Her dependence on Germany and Austria for the glass for her miners' safety lamps very nearly landed her in disaster. The position was so serious that the home office had to relax the conditions as to the quality and dimensions of lamps. Now Great Britain is producing sufficient supplies of the right quality.

Before the war three out of every four electric light bulbs in use in Great Britain came from Germany or Austria. She is now manufacturing sufficient to meet her essential needs.

CELEBRATE SIXTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Cook delightfully entertained a company of friends at their home 205 South Bill street Sunday in honor of the sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mrs. Cook's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Reed of 319 East Second street. T. A. Reed and Miss Susan Hoopengartner were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, two and a half miles northwest of Ft. Ritner, on March 3rd, 1859. Mr. Reed was born in Jackson county Dec. 19th 1837. Mrs. Reed was born in Lawrence county April 10th 1842 and their entire lives have been spent here with the exception of about nine years when they resided in Columbia, Tennessee. To this union eleven children were born only four of whom are living. They are John, of Indianapolis, Ollie, of Helmsburg, Fremont Reed and Mrs. Frank Cook of this city. There are seven grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren. Mr. Reed is a carpenter by trade and followed his occupation until about two years ago, when he retired from active work, and during the summer months devotes his time to gardening, and is an efficient vegetable grower. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Cook was beautifully decorated for the happy occasion with ferns and potted plants, while for the center of the table in the dining room was a dainty basket filled with carnations, snapdragons and fern. Covers were laid for fifteen. Besides the guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Fremont Reed, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Clegg, Mr. and Mrs. David A. Baird, Miss Carrie Cook and Stafford Reed, of this city and John Reed of Indianapolis. An elegant dinner and supper were served, and the afternoon and evening were enjoyably spent in a social way and a collection of music on the Edison machine added much to the pleasure of the day. Mr. and Mrs. Reed received the congratulations of a number of friends throughout the day.

STEINKER-KRUSE

Miss Emma Steinker and Martin J. Kruse were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Jonesville Lutheran church, Rev. P. L. Dannenfeldt, pastor, officiating. The attendants were Miss Evaline Wilmer and Walter Steinker. Following the ceremony an elaborate six o'clock dinner was served at the bride's home in Peter's Switch, covers being laid for the members of the immediate families, Rev. Dannenfeldt and Professor Burroughs, of Jonesville. During the evening a large number of people called at the Steinker home and a charivari was given for the couple. Mrs. Kruse is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Steinker. They will make their home at Peter's Switch.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Jesse Isaacs, of Acme, celebrated his seventieth birthday anniversary, Sunday, March 2. A number of friends called at the Isaacs' home with well filled baskets. An elaborate dinner was served and an enjoyable day was spent by all.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Will Herecamp and children, Mrs. Jessie Hustedt and son, Lowell, of this city, O. R. Anderson and children, Edna, Avis, Ralph and Mabel, Mr. and Mrs. Brewer Isaacs and children, of Gorbettstown.

Huns Fail to Provide Medicine for Yankee.

Winchester, England.—Due to the fact the Germans failed to provide medicine or proper hospital facilities at Camp Tichel, West Prussia, John H. Kohl of Woodhaven, N. Y., died from pneumonia after the armistice was signed, according to Joseph R. Dennen of Trenton, N. J. Dennen was of the Six Hundred and Forty-second American Ambulance unit and likewise a prisoner at Tichel.

"Kohl of Company G, One Hundred and Sixth infantry, was captured September 27 after twice being wounded in the knee," said Dennen. "Kohl later developed pneumonia through exposure. The Germans gave us only two blankets and a small quantity of coke for our fire. I gave Kohl one of my blankets and we put two pairs of socks on his feet and spread shirts and such extra clothing as we had on his bed to make up for the deficiency in blankets. There were two American doctors in the camp—Lieut. John S. Abbott of St. Paul, Minn., and Lieut. Joseph P. Burke of Pittsburgh, Pa.—and they did all they could, but could not obtain any medicine.

"Kohl died November 18. The Germans stripped the body and placed it in an ordinary box which they left outside the barracks for seven hours before burial. Four Americans and two Frenchmen carried him to the grave. When other Americans tried to accompany the body the guards forced them back. The American doctors, however, pushed the guards aside and ran through the cemetery gate, getting to the grave just as the coffin was lowered. Kohl was the only American to be buried in a cemetery holding 32,000 Russians and Roumanians.

"Nine Russians were buried in the one grave with Kohl. I tied an identification disk to his wrist before burial. After the burial the Germans stuck up a cross which read: 'Nine Russians, one American.'

Many United States Sailors Marry in Ireland.

Queenstown, Ireland.—Plans for the dismantling of the American naval stations in and around Queenstown are going forward rapidly. Time will be required to remove the base hospital at White Point and much work will be involved in removing the many big warehouses which were brought here from America and set up in record time. Other important parts of the American plant include wireless stations at Queenstown and Aglada and many hutments.

American officers and men have made a deep impression on the people of Queenstown and in other parts of South Ireland, and relations generally have been of the most cordial nature. This is proved by the fact that a number of weddings already have taken place, and more than one American sailor has promised to return for the girl he must leave behind.

Queenstown has prospered greatly since the station was established here, but the people declare their regret in seeing the Americans depart is because they have become accustomed to their presence and like them for the fine young fellows they are.

Chippendale Style

Chippendale, the first designer who so vigorously illustrated his ideas and ideals into designing to such an extent as to have a style carry his name, brought his creations to the apex of their popularity after the middle of the eighteenth century. Many recorders of furniture history regard Chippendale as the greatest designer of all time, and without a doubt, he was the most versatile genius the world has known in the furniture "industry."

Unlike some of the other styles, Chippendale did not flourish alone, Aden and Neppelwhite were contemporaneous with the first. Chippendale drew his ideas from many other designers, and copied not a little, but there was always such a vigor of treatment in his pieces which were adaptations that they were always marked as of the Chippendale type.

Cabriolet legs, much adorned with carvings, fretted legs, ladderback, ribbon-back, fret-back chairs are all common in Chippendale style. The letter "C" was one of the motifs that was extensively used in Chippendale creations. That is "C" shape scrolls and embellishments, were in evidence on many articles and in many different positions and paces. Chippendale furniture is perhaps more commonly spoken of and known than any other period style.

The Agricultural Page

This is the introduction of The Farmers' Page in the Seymour Daily Republican. It is a feature that The Republican trusts will be interesting as well as valuable to the farmers. It will also contain from time to time information relative to the home garden and in this respect will be of interest to readers who live in the city.

The Farmers' Page belongs essentially to the farmers. The Republican invites the farmers of Jackson and adjoining counties to contribute articles relative to agricultural work. Probably you have found some way of making your work lighter that will be of interest to other farmers. Write about it and send it to the Farmers' Page Editor, Seymour Republican.

The material for this page will be furnished by the farmers of the community, by the Jackson County agricultural department and the Extension Department of Purdue University. It will be devoted to the best interests of the farmers of the community and the page promises to become one of wide interest.

Apple Trees Not Likely to Be Injured Again

It is well to learn the lessons offered by the severe winter in 1917-1918 but hasty conclusions as its ultimate effect on fruit growing are to be avoided, said Professor Oskamp of the Horticultural Department of the Purdue Experiment Station who will discuss the topic, "Winter Injury of 1917-1918 and Its Lessons," at the Fruit Growers' Short Course which will be given February 24 to March 1. Nothing like the winter of 1917-1918 has ever been witnessed before in the history of our fruit industry.

The growth conditions prevailing during the summer of 1917 influenced the resistance of the trees to the cold and was responsible for the injury of thousands of trees. The season was short and wet and many trees failed to properly mature their wood. The zero weather also came unusually early which further increased the killing due to immaturity. Had a normal growing season preceded the severe winter or had the cold come later there would probably have been no killing in the apple. Thus even should a like winter prevail the same disastrous results would not necessarily be duplicated without a similar growing season preceding. The chances of apples again winter killing to a similar degree in Indiana are therefore small, according to Professor Oskamp.

An orchard can be made to come into earlier and heavier bearing by judicious pruning. In one two acre experimental block of apples those trees receiving a light pruning of the proper kind came into bearing two years earlier and at nine years old bore 75 per cent. more fruit than trees which had been pruned according to the common practice of cutting them back severely. These results are given by Professor Oskamp of the Horticultural Department of Purdue University who will demonstrate his methods of pruning at the Fruit Growers' Short Course which will be given February 24 to March 1.

The importance of training the young tree has been brought out in the experiment. Many orchards in Indiana have been permanently weakened by failure to train the young tree so as to develop a strong framework that can carry a maximum crop of fruit without breaking and splitting the tree. The open-center type of tree is almost sure to develop such faults. It is an unnatural form for most apple varieties and the tree perpetually attempts to replace the central stem, thus necessitating the removal of much wood and delaying the age of bearing. The central stem or modified leader form of tree will produce a stronger, longer lived and more profitable tree with less pruning, says Professor Oskamp.

What Vegetables Shall We Plant?

When you are ordering your garden seeds from a catalogue or a well-stocked seed store, there are a bewildering selection of varieties somewhat confusing to the amateur gardener.

In general it is best to order old standard varieties rather than trying out many new introductions. Of course, if your garden is large it is well to plant a new vegetable or one or two new varieties to make gardening more interesting—but the sorts that have been tried out many times before in your locality and have succeeded will be the best for you to plant, says the Jackson county agricultural agent.

Consult some of the older vegetable gardeners of your neighborhood. They will be able to give you many good hints on the varieties of vegetables to use.

The following list includes some standard vegetable varieties that are recommended for Indiana: Bush Green Beans: Stringless Green Pod; Bush Wax Beans: Hodson Wax; Curries Rustproof; Bush Lima: Fordhook Bush; Henderson's Improved; Pole Green Beans: Ken-

Hatch Chicks Early to Get Winter Eggs

"Hatch Early" is a slogan which has been offered Indiana farmers and farmers' wives for several years, until a creditable portion of them have begun to heed it. However there is a large percentage who have not yet learned the value of hatching chicks during March or the first week in April so as to obtain eggs early the following winter.

Some interesting records showing how early hatched birds have it "over" their late hatched sisters have been compiled by L. L. Jones, poultryman on the Purdue extension staff. For a flock of chicks hatched on the farm in March, the average egg laying mark was fourteen eggs during November, December and January. For some of the same kind of chicks, hatched in May, the egg production record was four eggs apiece during the same three months. The reason for this difference was that the early hatched birds matured before cold weather, and had started laying before severe cold puts its damper on hens.

During February, March and April, the late hatched birds laid 26 eggs each, while those hatched in March laid 39 eggs apiece. The same proportion held good during the next three months and in the summer they laid practically even.

While the early and late hatched produced nearly the same during the late spring and summer months, when eggs were high and were much in demand, the early hatched birds far outdistanced their later hatched companions.

Mechanical Methods of Road Maintenance Becoming Necessary

With the coming of spring much attention must soon be paid to repairing and maintaining the highways of the State. In the addition of new materials and packing better methods than have heretofore been used are necessary. Graded materials that have the proper percentage of pebbles to furnish body to the wearing surface are needed on the more heavily travelled ways. These cannot be left loose on top of the old surface, as they offer unnecessary resistance to traffic and are thrown into the ditch by fast moving automobiles, neither of which improves the road. They must be bound to and incorporated in the old surface in order to render immediate, efficient and permanent service. Light scarifying and shaping will prepare the surface for the new material. Rolling the new material will complete the process and make the road ready for the traffic. Our present roads were packed by steel-tired horse-drawn vehicles. The motor truck and auto have a tendency to tear apart the materials rather than pack. Thus rolling is necessary to bind the particles together to resist auto wear.

The preparation of the road, grading of materials, hauling and rolling require a permanent organization if much good is to be done. Where the volume of work is great enough county owned apparatus has proved successful. Trucks have proved successful in seven counties that have been visited. I have no reports of failures from any county. All would enlarge the service rather than cut it down. To be economical, trucks require facilities for loading. I have no reports on the economy of small screening plants in connection with loading bins. The success of this would depend on the location of the pit and the facilities offered by existing private producers. Truck drivers should be paid well and kept on full time to insure constant and efficient service.

These statements were made by Prof. R. C. Yeoman, of the Highway Engineering Department of Purdue University following investigations over the State.

The whole problem should be viewed from the business standpoint and methods adopted that will insure good roads at the least price. Many counties are adopting new methods with success. A tremendous increase in highway traffic is forecast for the coming summer. Careful and thorough repair of the roads in the early spring will eliminate much expense and trouble later.

Community Seed Corn Testing Idea Favored

Community testing of seed corn in which large testers, holding the kernels from several thousand ears at one time are used, is being advocated this year by soils and crops specialists in the extension department of Purdue University. The idea is being taken up in a number of counties of the state as a big step in simplifying the work of seed corn testing.

The accompanying photograph shows one of three testers used last year and again this season in Gibson county. This tester, which will hold 15,000 ears at a time, was situated in the courthouse basement at Princeton and was erected by the Gibson County Better Farming Association at the suggestion of County Agent R. R. Marshall, when the serious seed shortage confronted the state a year ago. Two other testers of similar type and size were built in Owensville and Oakland City in the same county.

The farmers brought their seed corn to the community testers and the name of each man was tied to his sacks. Tags bearing the number for square, which was marked off in the sandbox tester, were placed on each ear and the ear then was laid in a corresponding position on the racks lining the wall on each side of the tester. Thus, the germination was so successful and the careful testing gave the county the best stand of corn in its history despite the scarcity of good seed, that the farmers demanded that it be operated in the same way again this year.

A competent man was placed in charge of each of the three testers and the farmers paid 50 cents a bushel for the testing. Of this amount 40 cents went to the man doing the work and the remainder to pay for the material and building of the testers and many other expenses incurred by the better farming association on this work.

It is to encourage co-operation of this sort, in which the seed may be tested cheaper than in any other way, and as thoroughly as can be done, that the campaign is being waged throughout Indiana. Large testers of this sort have been built in several counties and more will be built to try out during the next few weeks.

"The cost of testing in this way is only seven and eight cents per acre," says W. A. Ostrander, of Purdue, who has charge of this work. "Every man knows that he should test his seed and the biggest arguments the farmers themselves offer for this method of community testing are that it takes it out of the farm home and gives a practical, easy and cheap way of testing every ear."

Dormant Spray Must Be Applied Before Buds Start

The time is here for the application of the dormant spray. There is one of the most important sprays for fruit trees. The health and vigor, and even the life of the trees, may depend upon this application. Scale insects and the spores of certain diseases which are a serious menace to the trees may be controlled by the application of sprays of a strength you would not dare use after the foliage starts.

Lime sulphur solution is most commonly used for this spray and should be diluted, one gallon to six or seven gallons of water until it will test 5 degrees Baume. Miscible oils are also successfully used by some for this spray, but care must be used in their preparation as free oil in the mixture may be harmful to the trees. The oil sprays should be diluted according to manufacturers' instructions. It is very important that this work be done thoroughly. Do not expect to do a good job by spraying from one side only. Neither can satisfactory work be done by driving down the row, without stopping the team. See that every part of the tree is completely covered.

Prepare to do this now for it will be too late when the buds start. Do not be deceived by patent nostrums to be sprinkled upon the ground or inserted in a hole in the body of the tree and guaranteed to kill all insects and diseases incident to tree life.

Treating of Seed Oats

A campaign for the treating of seed oats with formaldehyde to prevent smut will be waged during the next few weeks or till up to sewing time by men in the extension department of Purdue University. The campaign will extend to every county in the state and county and agricultural agents everywhere will take up the work. This is in line with a national campaign and will be similar to those waged during the last few years. F. J. Pipal of the botanical division at Purdue and several assistants will lead the campaign in the state.

"The increase in yield due to the treatment with formaldehyde ranged from two to thirty bushels per acre," said Mr. Pipal. "These figures are on demonstrations which have been conducted in Indiana and other states during the last five years."

"Practically every field has more or less smut unless the seed is treated. It is very easy to overlook the smutted stalks in the field since they are shorter than the sound stalks and almost completely hidden by the latter when one simply glances over the crop. Treating the seed every year, as it is generally practiced now in a number of northern counties of this state, is the only way to make sure that no loss is suffered on account of smut."

Garden Yields

Many home gardeners in Seymour are in doubt as to how much of each vegetable to plant in their gardens, since they do not know how much they can produce from a certain area. Any estimated yield can be only approximate since the vegetables you will secure from a row of certain length will depend on your soil, on weather conditions, and cultural practice. The following estimates are based on what may reasonably be expected if you have good soil, use proper fertilization, and take proper care of your garden:

From hundred foot rows you may get the following yields:

Bush string beans, 1 to 3 bushels.
Bush lima beans, 10 quarts.
Beets, carrots, parsnips, turnips, salsify, 2 to 5 bushels.
Sweet corn, 8 to 13 dozen ears.
Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, 1 to 2 bushels.
Early Cabbage, 65 heads weighing 1½ to 2 pounds each.
Late cabbage, 50 heads weighing 3 to 4 pounds each.
Onions, 1 bushel.
Peas, 1 bushel.
Tomatoes, 5 to 8 bushels.

From the above list, if you know approximately how much of each vegetable you can use during the year, you can figure the space you must allow for each crop to get enough for summer use, canning and drying.

Some other vegetables not included in the above list should find a place in the home garden. Fifteen or twenty feet of Swiss Chard will supply greens for summer table use and canning for the average family. Half a dozen parsley plants will provide garnishing and flavoring greens.

You do not need to supply space for early radishes. Mix a few radish seed with your parsnips and salsify at seeding time. Your radishes will be large enough to eat before the other plants in the same rows get large. A few mango plants will give you a constant supply of this vegetable while a short row of leaf lettuce will be enough to supply salad for most families.

What vegetables did you grow last year? In what part of the garden did you plant them? How successful were you with each of them? These are some questions that should be answered by every home gardener in Seymour before he starts on next year's garden.

Did you grow some sorts of vegetables that you had little success with? Perhaps cauliflower, celery, sweet corn or peas. Cauliflower is rather hard to grow and should not be attempted by those home gardeners who have a lack of space and time. Celery needs a great deal of attention and is an uncertain crop because of disease. Then too in the small garden it uses up space that could more profitably be given over to other crops. Sweet corn is not hard to grow but is your garden large enough to make sweet corn growing profitable? Peas too are not a good crop for the small garden. You need a good deal of space to grow enough peas for table use in summer and canning too.

Is part of your garden shady all day long? If so better not plant anything there for vegetables do poorly in the shade. If you have a small amount of garden that is shady just part of the day that is a good place to grow lettuce or other leaf crops in mid-summer when the sun is too hot for them.

For the small back-yard garden, some root crops such as carrots, beets, and turnips, a little lettuce and a few green onions, radishes, Swiss Chard plants, several tomato plants, and if you have more space, some bush snap beans—these will produce more than if you attempt in that small space such crops as corn, celery, cucumbers or potatoes.

Plan and plant your garden for efficiency.

Farm Tractor Discussed In New Purdue Bulletin

"The Farm Tractor" is the subject of a Bulletin, No. 89, by Prof. William Aitkenhead, head of the farm mechanics department at Purdue University, which has just been published by the Agricultural Experiment Station.

The author discusses the size of farms on which tractors are found; cost of fuel and repairs, saving in horses and men due to tractors; preferred size of tractor; the length of life of a tractor; increased acreage of crops as a result of using the tractor; depth of plowing; delays due to mechanical trouble; number of days tractors are used per year; wheel arrangement; ignition, kerosene as fuel, lubrication, grease cups, dust removers, transmissions, friction drive, types of tractors, position of engine, choice of a tractor, consumption of fuel and trouble chart.

"The experience of a White county man, farming 320 acres with a working force consisting of himself and man, four work horses, and a three tractor plow is as follows: for the 1918 crops, 175 acres were plowed and most of this land disked twice, and except for cultivating the 40 acres of corn and hauling in the grain, the horses were used little. One hundred and thirty-five acres of small grain were cut by the tractor drawn binder at the rate of twenty-two acres per day. The tractor and hayloadeer hauled in an eighty ton hay crop. Without the tractor, at least one more man and team would have been required for the season's work," says the bulletin.

Valuable pointers for every tractor owner or prospective owner in the state is contained in the circular which may be obtained by writing to Purdue University for it.

Aid in Road Building

With full State cooperation according to the terms of the Federal Aid Road Act, the United States will have a total of at least $574,000,000 for cooperative road building during the next three years. The Federal part of this fund is assured by an extra appropriation of $209,000,000 in the Post Office appropriation bill just passed by Congress and signed by the President.

Officials of the Bureau of Public Roads, U. S. Department of Agriculture, which administers the provisions of the Federal Aid Road Act and cooperates with the State governments in the expenditure of the money, point out that this amount of funds is the largest ever appropriated for similar purposes and for a similar period by any government in the history of the world, and that it enables the Federal and State governments to carry out a road-building program of a magnitude never equalled.

In connection with the great Federal aid program it is also noted that expenditures for highway work in the United States this year are likely to amount to a half billion dollars or more. On reports received from State highway departments, the Bureau of Public Roads estimates the 1919 expenditures for roads and bridges at $385,000,000, or $110,000,000 more than the average expenditures for 1916 and 1917.

An important effect of the law containing the new appropriation is that it broadens the definition of a rural post road, under which class a highway had to qualify in order to receive the benefits of the Federal aid act.

Twenty Shorthorn breeders of LaPorte county have formed the LaPorte District Shorthorn Breeders' Association, which will work with the newly formed agricultural association of that county. Dean J. H. Skinner, of the Purdue College of Agriculture, gave one of his characteristic livestock talks which was favorably received, and by-laws were adopted which provide for a $10 membership fee to be paid annually. The officers are: president, A. E. Watson, LaPorte; first vice-president, Roy P. Schnurr, LaCrosse; second vice-president, Ward Travis, Stillwell; secretary, Julius Travis, LaPorte; treasurer, John Emery, New Carlisle.

A Garden in a Desert.

His dwelling leaped into sight as Hardin turned the corner of the street. There was but one street running through the twin towns, flanked by the ditches of running water. The rest were ditches of running water edged by footpaths. Scowling, he passed under the overhanging bird cages of the Desert hotel without a greeting for the loungers, whose chairs were drawn up against the shade of the brick walls. The momentum slackened as Hardin neared the place he called his home. An inner tenderness dulled the sneer that disfigured his face. He could see Innes as she moved around in the little fenced-in strip that surrounded her desert tent. She insisted on calling it a garden, in spite of his railleury.

"Gerty's in bed, I suppose," thought Tom. He had a sudden vivid picture of her accusing martyrdom. His mouth hardened again. Innes, stooping over a rose, passed out of his vision.

It came to Hardin suddenly that a man has made a circle of failure when he dreads going to his office and shrinks from the reproaches at home.

"A 'has-been' at forty!" he mused. Where were all his ships drifting?

Innes, straightening, waved a gay hand.

"She's raising a goodly crop of barrels." His thought mocked and caressed her. Her garden devotion was

He loved the Hardin trait in her. A tender joke with him. He loved the Hardin trait in her, the persistence

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr.
Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

which will not be daunted. An occupation with a Hardin was a dedication. He would not acknowledge the Innes blood in her. Like that fancy mother of hers? Innes was a Hardin through and through!

"It's in the blood," ran his thought. "She can't help it. All the Hardins work that way. The Hardins always make fools of themselves!"

Innes, lifting her eyes from a crippled rose, saw that the black devils were consuming him again.

"Will you look at this wreck!" she cried.

The windstorm the previous week had made a sickening devastation of her labors. The morning-glories alone were scatheless. A pink oleander drooped many broken branches from which miracles of perfect flowers were unfolding. The prettiest blossom to Hardin was the gardener herself. She was vivid from eager toil. Hardin looked at her approvingly. He liked her khaki suit, simple as a uniform, with its flowing black tie and leather belt. She looked more like herself today. She had bleached out, in Tucson. She had been letting herself get too tanned, running around without hats. Sunburn paled the value of those splendid eyes of hers. He could always tease her by likening them to topazes.

His eyes ran over the pink and purple lines of cord-trained vines which made floral screens for her tent. Free of the strings overhead, they rioted over the ramada, the second roof, of living boughs. He acknowledged their beauty. They gave grace to bare necessity; they denied the panting, thirsty desert just beyond.

He remembered his own ramada. Gerty had hated it, had complained of it so bitterly when she came home from New York that he had had it pulled down and replaced by a V roof of pine boards, glaring and ugly. Gerty was satisfied, for it was clean; she no longer felt that she lived in a squaw house. Let the Indians have ramadas; there was no earthly reason she should. He had urged that the desert dwellers had valuable hints to give them. But what was a ramada to him, or anything else? Hardin turned to leave.

She did not want him to go so soon. She pointed out a new vine to him. She had brought it from Tucson; "Kudzu," they called it; a Japanese vine. And there was another broken rose, quite beyond the help of stripped handkerchiefs and mesquit splints.

He followed her around the tent, her prattle falling from his grim mood. He was not thinking of her flowers except as a mocking parallel. The desert storm had made a havoc of his garden—a sorry blotch of his life. He and Innes had been trying to make a garden out of a desert; the desert had flouted them. It was not his fault. Something had happened; something quite beyond his power. Luck was turning against him.

Innes, why, she was playing as with a toy. It was the natural instinct of a woman to make things pretty around her. But he had sacrificed his youth, his chances. His domestic life, too—he should never have carried a dainty little woman like Gerty into the desert. He had never reproached her for leaving him, even last time when he thought it was for good. The word burned his wound. Whose good? His or Gerty's? Somehow, though they wrangled, he always knew it would turn out all right; life would run smoothly when they left the desert. But things were getting worse; his mouth puckered over some recollections. Yet he loved Gerty; he couldn't picture life without her. He decided that it was because there had never been anyone else. Most fellows had had sweethearts before they married; he had not, nor a mistress when she left him, though God knows, it would have been easy enough. His mouth fell into sardonic lines. Those half-breed women! No one, even when a divorce had hung over him. Oh, he knew what their friends made of each of Gerty's lengthened flights; he knew! But that had been spared him; that vulgar grisly spectacle of modern life when two people who have been lovers drag the carcass of their love over the grimy floor of a curious gaping court. He shuddered. Gerty loved him. Else, why had she come back to him? Why had she not kept her threat when he refused to abandon his desert project and turn his abilities into a more profitable dedication? He could see her face as she stared flushing up into his that nipping cold day when he had run into her on Broadway. He remembered her coquetry when she suggested that there was plenty of room in her apartment! His wife! She spoke of seeing his pictures in the papers. "He had grown to be a great man!"

That piquant meeting, the week following had been the brightest of his life. He was sure then that Gerty loved him. The wrangles were only their different ways of looking at things. Of course, they loved each other. But Gerty couldn't stand pioneer life. She had loved him, or she would not so easily have been persuaded to try it over again. She yearned to make him comfortable, she said. So she had gone back, and pulled down his ramada, and put his clothes in the lowest bureau drawer!

"It wasn't either of our faults," he ruminated. "It was the fault of the institution. Marriage itself is a failure. Look at the papers, the divorce courts. A man's interests are no longer his wife's. Curious that it should be so. But it's a fact. It is the modern discontent. Women want different careers from their husbands'."

Yet, how could he help throwing his life into his work? He had committed himself; it was an obligation. If it were not for that indefinable something, his allegiance to the cause which mocked at reasons and definitions; oh, he knew!—he had tilted with Gerty and been worsted!—he would have resigned from his company, his company which had dishonored him. Why should he stay to get more stabs, more wounds? And the last blow, this pet of Marshall's! Hardin gave a scantling in his path a vicious kick.

The girl's prattle had died. She walked with him silently.

At the door of her tent, she stopped, looking at him wistfully. She wished he could hide his hurt. If he had only some of Innes' pride!

"How are things?" She used their fond little formula.

"Oh, rotten!" growled Hardin, flinging away. The gate slammed behind him.

School House Controversy.

Editor of Republican:—

The school muddle at this place grows worse. And the cloud of contention hangs lower and lower. On February 26th, 1919 Ford Lutes, trustee, called the Advisory Board together to appropriate money to build a Consolidated School House on what is known as "Persimmon Knoll." The board deemed it unwise to appropriate money because of the location and the opposition to said location.

A petition signed by every legal voter of District No. 7 was also presented asking the trustee to reinstate District No. 7, which petition was denied as others had been. Whereupon the advisory board emphatically refused to appropriate the money. Why Trustee Lutes would turn down all those petitions and refuse to act when asked by said patrons what was lawful and right and insist on locating a school house a little more than a mile east of the west line of the township, leaving a distance of six miles to Cortland which is within one mile of the east line of said township and leaving District No. 7 without a school building. The Persimmon Knoll location is so bad that Rufus Roberts, on whose land the said school building is to be located, said he would spend $1,000 rather than have it located there.

That the Sugar Grove, three-fourths mile east of Persimmon Knoll is the only suitable place for a Consolidated school, it being at a cross road and on the line between the two Districts No. 7 and No. 8. While the other location sets back from the road about one hundred yards with a deep ditch by the roadside to cross; and within a few hundred yards of a frog pond which never goes dry. The water from a nearby well if left standing over night a scum will form on the water and turn the vessel brown, while at the Sugar Grove is the purest water that flows from the earth, filtered through gravel from White river.

A more suitable place could not be found in Southern Indiana. Why Trustee Lutes would not seek advice from the four ex-trustees who have served their terms of office with satisfaction to the people of the township, and not even consult the advisory board which is a part of said office. The voters of District No. 7

Presbyterians to Raise Forty Million Dollar Fund for Local, National and Overseas Work.

Proclamation

FELLOW-PRESBYTERIANS:

A momentous hour has struck. The shadow on the dial marks a time of destiny for individuals, institutions and nations.

We must re-establish our altars as Abraham of old, and keep perpetually burning thereon the incense of a robust faith.

We must enter into all life and weave into its filament and fiber mercy and justice. Literature we must chasten; commerce, convert; politics, save; labor and capital, wed in the service of the common brotherhood; art, purify; society, democratize and sweeten; and religion, reveal as man's supreme asset.

At a time when empires are crumbling, and the wild wrath of wronged peoples flames forth against law and order, is it not our duty to make the Church's ministers serve humanity? Shall we not get under the Church's burdens, behind its tasks and into the midst of its struggles for the healing of the nations? Shall we bear the mark of Cain because our indifference has slain multitudes? Shall we live for ourselves and think for ourselves when heroes and martyrs have died for us?

In this hour of the recovery, reconstruction and regeneration of the world every Presbyterian should enlist in the New Era Crusade, invest generously in its great program and enter expectantly and resolutely into its Easter harvest season.

A God and Father inexhaustible in resources, a Divine Christ calling us to follow in His steps and a blessed Spirit for guidance and power, make the whole program attainable.

If we are true to our trust we shall have a revived Church, a restored faith in its mission, an ingathering to the joy of men and angels.

A past, heroic; a present, with a mighty imperative; and a future, whose prophetic beams already announce the coronation of the spirit of service and sacrifice, inspiring hope.

Let every Presbyterian sound forth the slogan "Over the Top to Victory and the Joy of an Immortal Achievement."

In the year of our Lord Nineteen Hundred and Nineteen.

Moderator's Proclamation Read in Every Presbyterian Church in this country on Sunday, March 2, and Displayed on Posters, Opening the Drive for Funds.

PROGRAMS prepared before the war are as useless as a last year's bird's nest—and this applies to the work of the Church just as much as it does to any other kind of an organization which deals with human relationships.

The New Era Movement of the Presbyterian Church was organized to study the conditions which have come out of the war and then to set up an adequate program that will frankly face the facts.

The financial "drive" is being organized by business men who were among the most successful workers in Liberty Loan, Red Cross, War Savings Stamps, Y. M. C. A. and the other war time "drives."

Leading preachers all over the country are leaving their important churches for the sixty day period of the Campaign, becoming responsible for certain areas, seeing to it that these are thoroughly organized for the final rally.

Among the objects for which the forty million dollars are to be spent are the following:

Half a million dollars for use among returning soldiers and sailors, to whom assistance is also to be given in finding jobs and in getting a new start in life.

Half a million dollars for reconstruction work in building Protestant churches in Europe devastated by the war.

Four million dollars for work overseas, where last year Presbyterians conducted 175 hospitals and dispensaries, in which 700,000 patients were treated and where educational institutions and religious services were maintained, which were attended by many millions of natives.

Eighty thousand dollars will be used for temperance and prohibition work, especially in foreign lands, in which American brewers and distillers are to begin operations as soon as their plants are closed down in this country.

Nearly a million dollars will be appropriated for disabled preachers, and another million will be used to increase preachers' salaries.

About three millions are needed for special work in American cities and among immigrant populations and lumberjacks and for work among Indians, Mexicans and other depressed peoples, and for relief work in the sparsely settled sections of the country.

Presbyterian women are to raise nearly two million dollars for educational and social work in this country.

Half a million will be used for building new Presbyterian churches and another half million for educational and religious work among negroes.

Nearly a million is to be spent for general religious education and theological training, half a million for Sunday School work and religious literature and about one hundred thousand for special men's work and general evangelism.

Twenty-five million dollars will be spent by the local Presbyterians churches for their general community work.

as well as others are going to stand by the advisory board at all hazards.

Washington, March 3.—The government today—with the personal participation of President Wilson—began a direct campaign for a nation-wide building boom to aid business and employment conditions.

A Woman's Story With Great Meaning

Subject of Childbirth Discussed by Women of Experience.

Women everywhere tell their friends how, through the use of Mother's Friend, the wonderful penetrating external application, they avoided suffering and distress before the advent of nature's most wonderful evolution.

Mother's Friend is a remedy which spreads its influence upon the cords, nerves and ligaments involved, rendering them pliant to readily yield to nature's demand for expansion. The nerves, cords, tendons and ligaments expand without that peculiar wrenching strain, and nervousness, nausea and unrestful sensations are naturally avoided when the nerves and muscles are relieved and thus are not tort and drawn.

By regular use, the lower abdominal region expands with ease when baby is born, the hours are less at the crisis, and pain and danger is naturally less.

You can obtain Mother's Friend from any drug store. It has been used by women for over half a century, and is just as standard as anything you can think of.

Write the Bradford Regulator Company, Dept. H, Lamar Building, Atlanta, Georgia, for their Motherhood Book, and get a bottle of Mother's Friend today, and thus fortify yourself against pain and discomfort.

ness and employment conditions.

Called by President Wilson, governors of many states and mayors of the large cities of the country, assembled this morning in the historic East room of the White House to hear the counsel of the president and members of his cabinet and determine on the best means of afford-

WIFE OF COUNTY CORONER DEAD AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. George T. Manuel Dies at Home on Pine Street—Funeral Wednesday Afternoon.

Mrs. George T. Manuel, aged fifty-five, died at her home on North Pine street this morning at 7 o'clock, following an attack of creeping paralysis which had developed since last December when she fell on Walnut street and was seriously injured.

Mrs. Manuel, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stillwell, was born in this city on June 13, 1865. For a number of years following her marriage to George Manuel she was a resident of Freetown. On November 21, 1917 Mr. and Mrs. Manuel moved from that place to this city and took up permanent residence on Pine street. Mrs. Manuel was the mother of two sons, Clifford, aged twenty-one, who was killed in a railroad accident March 25, 1905 near Westport, and Clyde, who died Nov. 12, 1905. At Freetown and in this city Mrs. Manuel leaves many friends who grieve over her death. She was a friend to all and was ever eager to assist those in need of aid and comfort.

The funeral services will be conducted at the Nazarene church, Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Interment at Riverview cemetery.

The deceased is survived by a husband, one brother, Joseph Stillwell, Clear Springs, and three half brothers, Jacob E. Tanner, Clear Springs, Gordon Tanner, Medora, and George Altridge, Mitchell.

Miss Conza Felters Dead.

Miss Conza Mary Felters, aged thirty years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Felters, Reddington, died at the home of her parents this morning at 6:45 o'clock. The funeral will be conducted at the Rockford church Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Anderson, Cortland, officiating. Interment will be conducted in the Riverview cemetery.

Miss Felters was born in Boone county in 1889. Her death is due to a complication of diseases from which she had been ill for nearly one year. The deceased is survived by a father and mother, three sisters, Mrs. Charles Lind, Reddington, Mrs. Phi Morton, Seymour, Mrs. Hillis Welsh, Seymour, and one brother, Schuyler, at home.
